Foundations for Youth Ministry

Unit Outline

About this Unit Outline

This unit outline contains information essential to finding your way around the unit Foundations for Youth Ministry. It provides a structure for your learning, giving details of lecture topics, assessment requirements, and key resources.

SEMESTER 2 2017

Important notice

While every care has been taken to ensure accuracy in the information given below, it is the personal responsibility of each student to check the current ACT Undergraduate or Postgraduate Handbook, copies of which may be found in the Library or online at www.actheology.edu.au

It is very important that students plan their time carefully to ensure that reading and especially assignments receive adequate attention and so as to prevent a bottleneck of work at the end of the semester.

It is very important that all quoted material in assignments be properly footnoted and acknowledged. The attention of students is drawn to the section in the current ACT Undergraduate or Postgraduate Handbook, headed "Academic Misconduct". Failure to comply with the standards required will incur penalties as outlined in the ACT Undergraduate or Postgraduate Handbook.

The attention of students is also drawn to the section in the current ACT Undergraduate or Postgraduate Handbook, headed "Guidelines for Essays." (See also the QTC Student Handbook) All essays should comply with these standards.

Information about this unit

Unit description

The unit, Foundations for Youth Ministry, commences with an overview of the Bible's teaching on young people. It then assists you to develop a theology of youth ministry by examining the place of biblical authority, different philosophies of ministry, and an historical overview of Christian youth ministry in Australia. It will also consider strategic models of youth ministry; including motivation; goals; content; and methodologies.

The unit will familiarise you with aspects of youth culture in secular western society, with particular focus on Australia; reviewing the beliefs and values of significant youth subcultures, and their various contexts.

Learning outcomes

After successfully completing this unit, you will have a sound basis to begin forming your theology of young people and youth ministry; a clear foundational knowledge of some models of youth ministry; and a practical understanding of youth culture in a secular society.

How this unit contributes to the course

In developing an understanding of the place of youth in society, and the role youth ministry plays in their life, students will be equipped with a holistic appreciation of young people and to be more effective in their pastoral work with them. Learning how to structure a balanced and culturally relevant youth programme, and how to evaluate existing programs will assist students to work effectively within a variety of contexts.

This unit caters for students studying either of the following accredited units:

- DM310 Foundations for Youth Ministry – an elective unit of the BTh/BMin/AssocDegTh/DipTh/DipMin.
- DM510 Foundations for Youth Ministry – an elective unit of the MDiv/ GradDipDiv/ GradCertDiv.

Each of these units is a 4-credit point unit in its respective award.

How this unit is organised and what we expect of you

The unit is taught over a 13-week semester.

There are two lectures per week, each of 50 minutes duration. This unit will involve approximately 2 hours per week of contact time, involving lectures, and class discussion time, plus the equivalent of one hour of prescribed reading and personal reflection and/or online material.

You are also required to be involved in practical ministry among adolescents. A suitable ministry placement must be arranged by you and approved by your unit coordinator within the first three weeks of lectures. Your ministry supervisor must also be approved by the unit coordinator.

This unit is worth 4 credit points (cp) towards your course.

A 4 cp unit is considered to require a total time commitment of 7–8 hrs per week.

Please contact the lecturer as a matter of urgency if you find that you are regularly needing to spend significantly more time than this on DM310/510.

Students are required to attend all lectures, complete any set reading and complete any assessment tasks by the relevant due date.

DM310 Assessments

Assessments are submitted online via Moodle

In order to pass the unit, you must submit all assessment pieces and attain a mark of at least 50% for the unit as a whole.

Unless an extension has been applied for and granted in accordance with the Late Penalty Policy found in the QTC Handbook, where a student submits an assessment past its due date, the assessment marks will be reduced at the rate of 3% of the total possible marks for the Assessment item per calendar day, up to 14 days late.

Your essays must also be within 10% of the required word limit and your ability to meet this requirement will also be taken into account in determining your mark. QTC seeks to prepare you for ministry, and in ministry delivering presentations on time and within an acceptable length are essential skills.

Guide to assessments

What are we looking for?

Each assessment in this unit requires that you present a sustained, persuasive argument. This involves several factors.

First, you must articulate a clear answer to the question. Work hard to summarise your answer in one or two sentences before you begin writing. You should clearly state your answer in the assessment—often in the introduction, but certainly in the conclusion. You should demonstrate that you: grasp the key issues; have an understanding of a range of scriptural and scholarly perspectives on those issues; possess an understanding of the subject matter beyond that of an introductory level; and have an understanding of the implications of your answer for ministry or life.

Second, you must offer evidence for your answer. Supply information in your assessment that is relevant to the question and which supports your answer. To achieve a higher result, you may also discuss evidence that could be used to undermine your answer and then demonstrate why it doesn't actually do so when understood correctly.

Third, you should demonstrate how the evidence you use actually does support your answer. A common mistake is to include information—quotes, Scriptural passages, etc—and simply assume that their significance for your answer is self-evident. Although it may be obvious to you, it is rarely obvious to your reader. Be aware that your assessor will not assume that you know the significance of the material for your answer. Therefore, use explicit commentary to guide your reader and explain how the information supports the case you are making.

Fourth, attempt to persuade your reader that your answer is the correct one. Good essays don't treat the subject matter as a case of 'show and tell' i.e. where you simply present all the ideas and information you've discovered. Instead, you should carefully consider how to organise the material so you build a case for your answer in the most persuasive manner possible.

Finally, you should seek to engage with Scripture, authors, scholars and theologians. Ideally you should be able to argue that you arrived at your answer because you are convinced that is what Scripture teaches. It should also be evident that you are "standing on the shoulders of others"—modern authors and scholars, and modern and ancient theologians—to help you understand Scripture and think through the subject matter better than you could do on your own.

Your assessment will be marked on:

- the clarity of your argument;
- your answer's relevance to the assessment question;
- your grasp of the key features of the discipline;
- your engagement with &/or analysis of primary sources;
- the range of secondary sources you utilise (including journals);
- your interaction with &/or critical evaluation of different viewpoints;
- whether you provided the assessment on or before the due date (or approved extension);
- whether the length is within 10% of the required words;
- whether you used appropriate grammar, layout & SBL referencing.
